HONGKONG, THURSDAY, JUNE 20, 1889.

Ir we mistake not it was Horace who

---- "The man who has it in his power To practise virtue, and provacts the hour; Waits, like the clown, to see the brook run low, Which careless flows, and will for ever flow—

And we commend the moral conveyed in these significant lines to the careful study of the Hon. Phineas Ryrie, senior unofficial member of the Hongkong Legislative Council, chairman of the Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce, chairman of the Hongkong, Canton and Macao Steamboat-Go,-for-over-thirty-years-aleading merchant in the colony, and the avowed defender against all-comers of the rights of the public and the best interests of the port.

At a meeting of the Council held on the 18th inst. Mr. Ryrie, in pursuance of notice previously given, asked—

"If it is with the sanction of the Government that all passengers travelling by the River steamers from Canton and Macao are liable and subject to search by the runners of the Opium Farmer in Hongkong."

We are surprised at such 'an old hand' in the Legislative Council as the 'Hon. Rupert' making himself ridiculous and wasting the valuable time of the members by asking such a foolish question. He was, we understand, prompted to do so by some blockhead connected with a certain Street, but surely he ought to have recognised the necessity of making himself acquainted in the first place with the true | which requires immediate suppression by some | resignation and meckness.

state of affairs! That he did not, and moreover that he had forgotten all he ever knew of the subject, was only too evident Mr. Ryrix was perfectly well aware that all passengers travelling from Macao or of which he is. Chairman of the Board of Directors, are liable to search by the excise officers employed by the Opium Farmer, and he also knew thoroughly that, as regards Chinese, the right has been rigorously and offensively exercised for two or three years past. As a matter of fact the honorable gentleman was present and in his place at the Council table when the infamous Opium Ordinances, Nos. 16 of 1886 and 22 of 1887, became the law of the colony, and had it been otherwise it was his business in his various public capacities to have made himself acquainted with their special provisions. The latter Ordinance provides in section 21 that—

"Excise officers duly appointed under the principal Ordinance (The Opium Ordinance of 1884) shall be deemed to be excise officers for the purposes of this Ordinance, and shall have the like powers, duties, rights and liabilities with reference to opium," etc.

Section 22 says-

"It shall be lawful for any police excise officer to arrest without warrant any person within the colony whom he reasonably | kong Blockade, the freedom of the port, and suspects to be conveying or to have concealed on his person any opium in contravention the requirements of this Ordinance, and to take him before a Magistrate to be dealt with according to law."

And section 23 makes it lawful for any inspector of police or excise officer, who has reasonable ground for believing that there is any opium in any ship within the waters of the colony in contravention of the provisions of the Ordinance, men-of-war and vessels with the status of men-of-war excepted, to go on board without a warrant and search the ship, seize any opium found, and arrest the person in whose custody, possession, or control it is found. Nothing could be plainer than this, and therefore the course adopted so very late in the day by Mr. Rykie to remedy a grievance, for that it is a grievance is beyond all question, is all the more incomprehensible.

But, if the senior unofficial member elected to 'play the goat ' for once, that was no reason why the Government should have followed suit. A simple, and admittedly foolish, question was asked, and a simple, but not necessarily a foolish, answer could easily and ought to have been given. The Government knew that the Opium Farmer's officers had the right to search suspected that such right was daily exercised; yet this is the reply the Colonial Secretary is | IT is now forty-three years since Tennyson reported to have made-

"In reply to the hon, member's question, have to state that the Government has not given or refused sanction in respect to any searching on behalf of the Opium Farmer. Such searches either are, or are not, in accordance with the law. If they are not there is a legal remedy,"

Government certainly cannot be compli- for more than twenty will receive on a pro rata mented on straightforward dealing, and we think that in view of the very strong public feeling against this arbitrary power being vested in the irresponsible excise officers of the Opium Farm, something ought to have been said as to an amendment of the objectionable ordinance being under consideration. However, as that was not done, we would suggest to Mr. RYRIE, as he has at length recognised the existence of what is alike a nuisance and a piece of class legislation—not on paper but in fact—disgraceful to Hongkong, that he should at once take steps to obtain the repeal of the objectionable clauses in the is that of sixty-three suns. Opium, Ordinances. And the following article, which appeared in the Hongkong Telegraph of the 7th July, 1886, may remind him of certain details which had apparently slipped. his memory:

THE FREEDOM (?) OF THE PORT.

The proudest boast of Hongkong for the past forty years has been its so-called independence. According to the patriots who have made this sea-girt isle their home, men whose spurious loyalty, exhibited chiefly for selfish aims and personal aggrandisement, has brought the colony to the verge of bankruptcy and a large proportion of the residents to close quarters with actual want, the city of Victoria stands out prominently as an absolutely free port. This has been flaunted before the world in public speeches and official despatches by political charlatans like Sir George Bowen, and on many convenient occasions been made much of by the other official toadies and sycophants so abundant in our midst. And what is it, after all? A vain, empty lie. There was a time when Hongkong could fairly claim to be a tolerably free port—never quite free from official vampires who lay in wait for their tion in the game, a distribution of prizes in the "squeeze"—, but that time is not now. The Hongkong General Chamber of Commerce is supposed to possess some sort of prescriptive right to guard the freedom of the port and the interests of its citizens, but even that ubiquitous institution would seem to be oblivious of the scandalous state of affairs brought into existence by the passing of the new Opium Ordinance, No 17 of publication of to-night's Telegraph would have 1886. By that ordinance, which was passed by the to be suspended. Thanks, however, to the Legislative Council on May 7th, it is provided in | courtesy of Mr. R. C Wilcox, lessee of the Daily section 3 that "the powers given to inspectors of police by section 7 of the principal Ordinance office at our disposal, we have been enabled to (The Opium Ordinance of 1884) with reference | publish, and would crave the indulgence of our to the searching of ships and the scizure of opium on board such ships may also be exercised by any excir officer." The term "excise officer" THE Pope is a very fine chess-player, and one is not a happy one in the statute book of a port | priest in Rome has the especial honor of being | which claims to be free from all customs dues. his adversary over the board. effectual means. We have personally seen these excise officers (?) forcibly searching passengers' luggage on the Hongkong, Canton, and Macao Steamboat Company's wharf on the arrival of the steamer from Macao-after they had been unceremoniously ejected out of the ship-and conducting themselves like licensed Canton by the steamers of the Company, builtes and blackguards of the first water, although they were acting quite, illegally, as the ordinance gives them no power to interfere with baggage on the wharf without a special serrch warrant from a police magistrate And the seizures of opium these men make are so insignificant as to be quite unworthy of serious consideration. The time of the police magistrates is almost daily taken up, to the inconvenience of the general public, and respectable Chinese passengers arriving here from the Coast Ports or from the interior of China find themselves dragged up to the Police Court like criminals because they happen to have about them a little opium for their own personal use. Truly a nice state of affairs in this greatly vaunted free port. A case came under our observation the other day, which will serve as an example of what is occurring daily. A Chinese gentleman, a stranger to Hongkong, came from an outport on a visit to the colony. Immediately on arrival his luggage was unceremoniously searched by the Opium farmer's myr midons, and as he happened to have a diminutive pot of prepared opium for his own use he was haled up before the Police for strate, subjected to rough and offensive . dock with a crowd of rogues and vagabonds as if he had committed some serious crime, and eventually sentenced to pay a fine,-with the alternative of going to prison. And yet in the face of such disgraceful proceedings going on in the light of day and under the sanction of the law, we have people prating about the Hongother such-like twaddle. The only "blockade" of Honekong in actual existence is maintained inside by the black-and-tan excise officers of the Chinese Opium larmer. Perhaps the President and Vice-President of the Chamber of Commerce will cause some searching inquities to be made into the scandalous state of affairs we have just exposed? As customary in the Legislative Council, The Opium Ordinance of 1886 was rushed through without this objectionable clause receiving proper consideration almost unlimited powers were conferred on the Opium Farmer and his employes, entirely irresponsible persons, and here we have the result. It is only further evidence of what harm can be done to the best interests of the colony by a feeble, and incompetent administra-

About half-past five he took out a pony for exercise in a trap. The animal ran all right till it reached the junction of Upper Arbuthnot Road and Caine-road, where there is a large opening eighteen or twenty feet deep in the roadway for the purpose of clearing the sewer. The pony shied at something, just as this place was reached, and, jumping on one side, smashed through the frail bamboo barricade around the pit, and fell down, dragging the vehicle and driver with it. Unfortunately Mr. Kennedy fell undermost, with the trap on him. Assistance was soon rendered, but it took some time to get him out. Dr. Ayres, who lives close by, was called, and pronounced his injuries very serious. On being taken to the Hospital it was found that one of his ribs was broken and, probably, his skull fractured. He lies in a very precarious state. The proy was injured, and the vehicle smashed.

THE Sydney Bulletin on that weak pennyworth of gush and grovel called the London Figure :-"London Figare, penny organ of the snobocracy, feeds its readers with this nauseous bosh anent the Crown Prince of Austria's happy dispatch: "The people of Vienna still seem dazed in the face of the great trouble which has befallen them. Journalism, all the world over, is governed by the laws of supply and demand. Even a limp rag like this Figure must find purchasers sufficiently numerous to ensure some sort of profit for its proprietors, and the editor must be credited with understanding the wants of a small section of the London public. He caters for bourgeois readers, chiefly feminine, who specially delight in maintaining the miserable fiction that royalty is personally adored by the ignorant millions with no thought but to keep body and soul together, and by the intelligent tens of thousands who wait only for the great army of mankind to take close order behind them, that they may march upon the decaying strongholds of monarchy and wipe them off the face of God's earth. But the very fact that a thing like Figure can be tolerated in objection to the Imperial Federation scheme. Shall we draw closer the bonds which bind us to the country where such a rank weed is indigenous to the soil? The vilest weekly publication of Imperial Smellbourne dare not imperil its limited circulation by printing a paragraph and verse like the above, that would turn even Duncan Gillies bilious and raise an incredulous laugh in the grovel-steeped Australian Club. He was playing Cassius, and Brutus was very drunk. After the first act that noblest of Romans grasped his fellow-conspirator by the arm and asked him for some prescription to stendy him up, and Cassius at once recommended snuff and vinegar as a certain cure. The hazy Latin warrior tried it accordingly. and then, the curtain going up, he had to go on and discourse in this lame and uncertain fashion :---

PLUTOCRACY AND AUTOCRACY.

One very dark night in February last, when the temperature was something under sixty degrees and the tide just beginning to ebb, strongly, a woman either jumped or fell into the Harbour from the Canton Wharf. McDougall was near by, and on hearing the hubbub ran up. On learning what had happened he jumped straight in after the drowning woman. although dressed in heavy winter clothing. His collie dog, which never misses doing duty with him, followed, and between them they managed to get the woman to a place where she could be hauled out. In doing so, however, McDougall was unfortunate enough to lose several links from his gold chain. On a later date, one afternoon, the Water

Police boat No. 15, in charge of Corporal Lun Sau, saw an overturned junk in the Harbour, and on rowing alongside heard some one knocking inside. After vainly trying to right it the corporal decided to dive inside. He accordingly plunged in, and after several attempts got through the narrow entrance to the "cabin." There were two girls inside, and both at once clung to him desperately, but nevertheless he managed to get out with them and bring them to the surface. Here we have two undoubtedly brave men

Nell, a "certain rich man" in Hongkong, Mr E. R. Belilios, a gentleman whose princely fortune has been mainly derived from local industries and works of philanthropy in connection with providing cheap palaces for the poor, has kindly patronised them! It is not the first time he has done this. In 1884, by gener ously setting aside about two hours' income, he founded what is ostentatiously called the "Belilios Star." He put something under a thousand dollars in the hands of Dr. Eitel and Mr. J. Francis, and authorised them to invest it for the the near future. purpose of buying a sort of medal to give to anybody who performed a specially heroic deed. The star was designed—it is a fire-worky plate of metal about three inches across, surrounded by wavy spikes, and with a kind of a sort of a bas-relief in the middle showing somebody running away from a fire. It is about five times too big for a medal and a little too small to be of utility as a frying-pan, and probably it cost a dollar. No well regulated policeman would dream of werring it. To make its acceptance more probable, therefore, a twenty-five dollar note generally accompanies it, together with a printed guarantee, signed by the trustees, that no harm is intended by the donor. One example of this moneycratic medal is donated about once a quarter, so that four times a year, in perpetuity, Mr. Belilios smells the sweet savour of notoriety as a philanthropist, all for a thousand dollars spent in 1884. Strange to say, H. E. the Governor actually lends himself to the farce, and almost makes the presentation a real one by taking the principal part in it. He did so to-day.

After breakfast all the police availableincluding many who had just come off duty and were sorely needing sleep-were marched by General Gordon to Government House, and drawn up in line, to assist at the function. The trustees and a few outsiders were present. Hi Excellency commenced a little prematurely apparently in the hope that he would get through before the reporters came. He made some appropriate opening remarks about the merit of brave actions, and the propriety of recognising them and then called McDougail to the front. Before handing him the saucepan and shekels he made one or two further but almost inaudible remarks as to the emulation his action would create, then shook hands with him, smiling a glassy smile which the McDougail Cratur returned stonily and called for the Chinese corporal. Mr. Francis who had charge of the Belilios bequest, read out a short sketch of the rescue effected by the man, and then His Excellency began on him. He expressed his admiration of Lun Sau's bravery especially as he belonged to a people who never extended a helping hand to a drowning person, which remarks were interpreted by Mr. Duggan of the Police Department-very fluently. -- Then he handed Lun a silver medal (McDougall's was bronze). Mr. Francis next thanked His Excellency for presenting the plates, and the proceedings terminated as far as the police were

The shipments of rice and the quantity to be depended upon have proved sufficient to warrant the owners of the barques Elisabeth Rickmers'and Etha Rickmers to send them to Bangkok to load rice on owners' account, the cargoes being purchased in Bremerhaven where the vessels belong. This is possibly the first indication of the sailing vessel trade that is to be advanced to some extent between Bangkok and Europe. According to good authority, no doubt the trade will be well sustained within a few years, as the new area of cultivated land increases, and larger crops are harvested.

Fruther particulars regarding the advancement of the sailing vessel trade between Bangkok and Europe have recently been obtained by u-That a regular line was to be established to carry rice from Bangkok to Europe we were well aware, but the details were lacking. We learn now definitely that the two vessels mentioned in our last issue, the Elizabeth Rickmers, and Etha Rickmers, which formerly belonged to the firm of R. C. Rickmers & Co. of Bremen, now belong to the Company which is known as the Rickmers Reismühlen Rhederei and Schiffban A-G. This firm is now the largest rice importing firm in Europe, and they own a great number of vessels and steamers. A son of one of the partners was lately in Bangkok, the guest Messrs, A. Markwald & Co., after having visited the rice ports of Burmah and other places. It is certain from what we hear that the rice export trade of Bangkok is largely to be increased in

We take great pleasure in having to again record an act of generosity on the part of His Majesty the King of Siam. Very few old Bangkok residents, we think, are unacquainted with the name of Captain Warnken, the light-housekeeper. and it is this old servant of the Siamese Government who has now become the recipient of His Majesty's bounty. On it recently being decided 📢 that a trip to Europe was the only thing to relieve Captain Warnken, who has suffered from asthma for over 22 years, His Majesty was graciously pleased to donate the sum of 40 (3,200 licals) to pay his expenses. Captain Warnken came to this country in 1862, and after serving some years in Siamese-owned ships, entered the employ of H. H. Chow Syc. In 1874 he took charge of the light-house at the bar, where he has shown himself a painstaking and conscientious servant of the Government ever since. To the public, especially the shipping community, he has proved of invaluable tervice, for it is solely owing to his careful observations that a tide table was compiled and the navigation

It would be too much to expect in the present stage of public administration in China that any high otheral will be charged with the exclusive duty of supervising the construction of railways. The Governor then walked up to his house The most multifarious and even incongruous charged with the responsibility for coast defences. So it will doubtless be with the Railway administration. Some official holding several important posts will probably be called on to add the Railways to his portfolio, and give the dregs of his time and energies to this novel work, Under these circumstances it is of the greatest importmust, so far as the Chinese Commissioner is His Excellency made a very halting, un-concerned, be absolutely a blind selection, since organize. General Kwei relieving his sentry from duty to join him and the regimental cook tin a game of cards, or a High Commissioner for Railways consulting a stoker on questions of dministration, are types of indifference to discipline which are not wholly fanciful, and hese examples sufficiently indicate the danger we refer to. On every ground, therefore, the executive staff assumes an importance in this country which it does nowhere else in the world,

It is a most remarkable thing that though brimd facie the conditions are entirely unfavourable to such a result, yet the Chinese Government has been singularly well served by its foreign employes of all grades. The selection of professional men and experts has been most fortuna'e, and their relations with the Chinese officials and with each other has been such as to admit of really good work being done. Take the nearest example of this,-the Naval School at the Eastern Arsenal, In that establishment the Chinese Government profits by the services of two of the most accomplished scientific men in the English navy, as well as of a thoroughly trained schoolmaster competent to manage a public school. The work goes on so smoothly that the establishment is little heard of except at the periodical examina-, tions, and not much even then. foreign expects in China are by no means confined to professional skill, though that is a conditio sine qua non An Engineer in partibuse Bucks. Any Ghemist can supply it .-- A. S. requires to be master not only of details, but of principles in the widest sense, for he is usually, solitary, heyond the reach of advice, and the problems which present themselves to him generally possesses some entirely novel features. And not only novelties in respect of engineering questions, but new situations, in which various qualities of the mind are brought into play. It is not enough, in China, for an engineer to be master of his profession: to succeed in anything he must also be a diplomatist, a political economist, and a man of infinite forbearance. Soft he must not be, yet clastic and flexible; his tread firm, but no noisy: like the pertinacious and and meckeved camel rather than the fiery iron-shod charger. It is quite surprising how much talent is thrown away through people asserting themselves with too much emphasis, and there is an art in yielding to even the puerile exactions of Chinese employers without making any substantial sacrifice either of truth or efficiency. The Chinese foible is vanity, which makes it easy to humbug them, and it is often remarked that they like being fooled. Between two competitors for a contract the one who distributes the most pigment on his drawings is sure to be preferred by the higher officials, and as it costs nothing to humour so harmless a taste, men with the severest sense of duty may in this respect copy the tactics of their meretricious i eighbours. An expert, to succeed, must not only bear with incessant small interferences by ignorant persons but a perfectly pure and upright-man must not allow his equanimity to be disturbed when he finds himself calmly credited with the full measure of corruptibility of the most venal of Chinese. officials. A disinterested man doing his duty from a mere instinct of duty is a phenomenon which is scarcely intelligible to the Chinese, and indeed it is only partially so among Christian nations. Consequently a really good man will never be appreciated until the time comes to build his tomb, and even then it will not be for his best qualities, but for something to which he could probably lay small claim that his memory will be honoured. These and a thousand more sources of annoyance, vexation, and mortification, must the servant of the Chinese be prepared to face, just as the traveller in the desert has to face sand storms, thirst, and privations of every kind. And what is to the professions man perhaps most difficult to bear, he must also put with the flippant criticisms of amateurs or of pseudo-professionals, whose opinion his Chinese employers will be sure to ask, and then pose him with queries as to whether nature does or does not abhor a vacuum, and whether this or that might not have been otherwise. It is clear, therefore, that the executive staff of any Chinese e terprise, but more especially of such as are original in the country, should be composed of highly efficient and many-sided men, who either by instinct or training have their tempers completely under control, and who know how to adapt themselves to circumstances, and who are catholic in their ideas. To say that the scientific staff of the Chira Railway Company fulfilled these conditions in a remarkable degree would be to do them no less than justice; and indeed the Railway engineers and others are standing examples of the frequent remark that China gets exceedingly good service from her foreign employes.— Chinese Times.

TO-DAY. THE SHARE MARKET.

c'clock. Banks have been very firm throughout the day, and sales have been arranged at as high as 180 per cent; premium for cash and the end of the month. Steamboats continue a mystery; there are sellers for cash at 273, and yet for delivery on July 31st the shares are quoted at 286. This makes a difference of $13, whereas the actual interest, even on a most liberal scale, is a few cents over two dollars. Well may the public ask what all this means. China Sugars are inquired after at 269, and business has been done at 270 and 280 for the end of August. This is another of the current mysteries of the Share Market. Punjom's have changed hands at 30 and a few small lots at that rate are offering. The expected London telegram has evidently not yet arrived. There has been a "boom" in the Songel Koyah Planting Co.'s shares, which have been placed at 49 for cash and 56 and 58 for August. Other stocks are quiet, but Jelebus are on offer at 61.
